

TO CONTEST HER FATHER'S WILL.

Mrs. H. Saloman Gets a Guardian as a Preliminary to the Fight.

She Says Mrs. Lillian Ash Was Wily and Used Undue Influence on Campbell.

He Was Infatuated with Her and Gave Her Two Houses Shortly Before His Death.

SHE WAS KNOWN AS THE OLD MAN'S WIFE

Charge That the Campbell Relatives Were Not Admitted to the House During Her Aged Admirer's Last Hours.

Justice McLean, in the Supreme Court, yesterday issued an order making Sidney H. Saloman the general guardian of his wife, Estelle Leonora Saloman. The husband gave a bond of $10,000.

In her petition Mrs. Saloman says that she is twenty years old and that she was married on June 21, 1895. Mrs. Saloman is the daughter of William Campbell, who died October 25 last. She believed that he died intestate. Her mother died in 1893. Mrs. Saloman said that she thought her father left personal property valued at about $5,000.

Saloman says that he is a broker with an office at No. 72 Broadway; that he is worth over $50,000, having a valuable interest in his father and grandfather's estate.

The property of Mrs. Saloman's father included a block on Tenth avenue, between Fortieth and Forty-first street, where he had a wall paper factory. He also owned two houses, one on West Fifty-sixth street and one on West Fifty-eighth street, where he died.

The Cause of the Trouble. Across the street from Mr. Campbell lived Mrs. Lillian Ash, with whom Mr. Campbell became infatuated, and it is claimed that after a time she went to live in the same house with him and was known as his wife.

On October 1 last Campbell conveyed the two houses to Mrs. Ash and the deeds were recorded in her name.

"My father was ill," says Mrs. Saloman, "for several weeks before his death. Mrs. Ash had charge of the house and excluded all of the relatives. I called several times and begged to see my father, but she refused to allow me to see him. The day before he died, then, he was so weak that he could hardly talk to me." Lawyer Albert Hammel, who is counsel for Mrs. Saloman, said that in case a will was found leaving any property to Mrs. Ash, that it would be contested on the ground that she had induced Campbell to leave his property to her by undue influence.

He has already brought a suit to have the conveyances of the two houses set aside. Mrs. Ash, much to the surprise of his daughter, who thought he had not made any. The value of the estate is not given, but it is supposed to amount to several hundred thousand dollars. Mrs. Ash's will is bequeathed to Mrs. Saloman, and a large part of the remainder of the property goes to Mrs. Ash. The money is also left to Mrs. Ash. A bitter legal fight will be made to break the will, Lawyer Hammel declares.

D. R. HOBART A WITNESS.

Brother of the Republican Vice Presidential Candidate Testifies to an Old Bucket Shop Case.

D. R. Hobart, a brother of Garrett A. Hobart, Republican candidate for the Vice Presidency, to whom he bears a strong resemblance, was a witness yesterday before Judge MacLean, in Supreme Court, Chambers, in supplementary proceedings brought by Oscar Quirk to collect a judgment for $500 obtained against him in 1895. When the latter was one of the best known bucket shop proprietors in town. He quit business just after Quirk's suit was brought. Hobart's lawyers learned that Quirk had started in again at No. 40 Broadway and was doing a lively business. They also learned that D. R. Hobart conducts a broker's business next door to Quirk, and that Quirk was supposed to be his partner. Proceedings were then begun.

Quirk denied having any interest other than a nominal one in Quirk's place. Mr. Hobart's examination was not finished, and will be resumed on Wednesday.

HAS STERLING A DOUBLE?

Close Resemblance to the Lawyer of "Brown," Who Painted the Town and Was Arrested.

Detectives who saw "William J. Brown" in court say that if he should meet George Sterling, Assistant Corporation Counsel of the city of New York, face to face, it would be as though each was gazing into a looking glass, and that a third party looking at them could not tell one from the other, so striking is their resemblance. "William J. Brown," whoever he is, is a high, thin, dark, middle-aged man, with a high forehead, and a thin, straight nose. He started in to paint the town with a lavish hand, in the course of which he encountered two young women who asked him to call on them at No. 107 West Thirty-eighth street. At 11:30 o'clock "Brown" went to No. 107 and rang the bell. The summons was responded to by Mrs. Charles B. Barney, but the prisoner was bailed out by his father.

SCORCHER POUCHER'S TAUNT.

Flung It at Cycle Policeman O'Donoghue Who Outspurred Him.

Wright Pouchey, eighteen years old, of No. 30 West Ninety-seventh street, was arrested in Yorkville Court yesterday morning on a charge of scorching.

Policeman O'Donoghue said that on Wednesday night he saw Pouchey riding the Boulevard at an exceedingly high rate of speed. When he called to him to stop Pouchey turned and cried to him, "Just tell them that I saw me." O'Donoghue said he pursued Pouchey, and after riding faster than he had ever ridden in his life before he caught him after a chase of fifteen blocks. He looked Pouchey up, but the prisoner was bailed out by his father.

Magistrate Brann recognized the prisoner, and said that he knew his father well. Pouchey told the Magistrate that he was on his way to see his sweetheart when he was arrested.

"He's a professional," said the policeman. "No, I am not," said Pouchey.

"Well, he ought to be willing to pay $5 for the confinement," said the Magistrate. A friend of the prisoner paid the fine.

HECTOR TELLS OF THEFT.

The Manufacturer Says He Has Been Robbed, but His Employees, Waiting for Their Pay, Doubt It.

Nathan Hector, who conducts a sweat shop at No. 85 Monroe street and employs twenty hands in the manufacture of cloaks, was proceeding to the shop last evening with over $200 in his trousers pocket when he was set upon by two men and robbed of the money. Half an hour before he had delivered a quantity of goods to S. Rothschild & Brothers, corner of Howard street and Broadway, and received a check for a little over that amount. He had the check cashed at Harry von Minden's saloon, No. 125 Grand street, and after eating a sandwich and drinking a glass of beer, started for his shop. Thursday is pay day with Hector, and his hands were waiting for their money when a small boy ran into the shop and explained that "the boss" had been robbed.

Hector says he proceeded through Grand street to Allen and thence through Allen, after leaving the saloon, and was but a few yards from the intersection of Allen and Division streets when he was grabbed about the neck by a strong arm. He found himself powerless in the arms of two men, who demanded his money. At the same time one of the men tried to force a hand into the pocket containing the money. Hector clapped his right hand over the pocket and tried to yell. One of the men drew a knife and slashed the tailor's hand which held the pocket. Hector was then almost choked into insensibility and the pocket containing the money was ripped out.

Hector's hands were bleeding and his coat and trousers were torn when he appeared at the Elfridge Street Station House a few minutes later. The detectives didn't believe his story.

Hector's employees flocked to the station house and insisted on Hector paying them their money. Some of them declared that they did not believe that the boss had been robbed.

MANAGER F. D. BUNCE DEAD

Heart Disease Carried Him Off Suddenly in His Office in the Lyceum Theatre.

Francis D. Bunce, for eleven years business manager of the Lyceum Theatre, dropped dead in his office at the theatre shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning from heart disease.

About 11 o'clock Mr. Bunce returned to the theatre, after making a deposit in a nearby bank. He seemed to be in his usual good spirits, and as he passed the man in the box office he said good morning in a cheerful manner.

Ten minutes later Nathaniel Hartwig, a member of the Lyceum company, found the manager stretched on the floor of his office, face downward. Drs. Woodman and Semmoun, who were hastily summoned, found that life was extinct. An inquest was held in the afternoon. It was found that death was due to heart disease.

The aged mother and aunt of the deceased, who live in New Haven, have been notified of his death, and no arrangements for the funeral will be made until they are heard from.

Francis Daniel Bunce was born in New Haven forty-three years ago. He came to this city when not yet out of his teens, and a few years later accepted a position in the business department of the Daily Graphic. He soon rose to the position of chief clerk. Daniel Frohman, who is now a member of the Lyceum Theatre in 1888, made Mr. Bunce the business manager, which position he held ever since. He was unmarried, and lived at No. 121 East Twenty-ninth street. He was a member of the Players' Club and the Actors' Fund.

A THEOLOGICAL THEIF.

Student Kennan, of Hillsdale College, Found Surrounded by His Plunder in a Church.

Hillsdale, Mich., Oct. 29.—James Whipple and Vern Myers, Hillsdale College students, saw a man enter the college church last night. They were suspicious, as many overcoats, watches and other articles have been stolen within the last few weeks. Mrs. N. K. Hill was also robbed of $40 and jewelry, and Horace Ranney's house was robbed of silver and watches. Whipple and Myers got an officer. In the organ loft, in a nest of cushions, they found the intruder. Around him was piled stolen clothing of all descriptions and a variety of pies, cakes and fruit. He was handcuffed and taken to Hill, being recognized as Ken Kennan, a seventeen-year-old student of Hillsdale College, who had just returned from Chicago, where he had been with rough companions. Still later he went to Detroit and Cleveland, and finally returned to Hillsdale.

He had formerly lived at Mrs. Hill's, and took the money and jewels from the bedroom in which his mother died a few years ago. He was a feeble, nervous fellow, who had run away from the house, so that burglary was an easy matter.

RAILROAD WORKERS' JUNKET.

Ten Carloads of Employees Go to a McKinley Demonstration.

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 29.—The first result of the work done by Lehigh Valley Railroad officials was seen to-night, when ten carloads of men went to Easton, Pa., to take part in the sound money parade of the Lehigh Valley and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad employees. Every man who signed the roll of the company's McKinley club, as told in the Journal, was given a ticket. Those who failed to sign the roll were refused passage. Many Bryan men were on the train, they having signed because they thought it made their jobs more secure to go.

At the Lehigh Valley station, this city, and the Lincoln Park, of South Amboy, were taken along as the guests of the road. A band and a drum corps also accompanied the party.

LOST HIS LIFE FOR HIS WIFE.

While Endeavoring to Wave a Signal to Her a Brakeman Was Crushed by a Train.

In endeavoring to wave a salute to his wife, Charles Rithrick, a railroad brakeman, residing at No. 310 Bergentine avenue, Union Hill, lost his life at Kingston, N. Y., Wednesday afternoon.

Rithrick knew that his wife was passing the train, that was scheduled to pass the freight upon which he was a brakeman, at Kingston. As his train slowed up on a siding, he leaped down with the intention of waving his hand to his wife as she passed by. In jumping from his train he landed directly in the path of the approaching engine.

Mrs. Rithrick was not informed of her husband's death until she reached her home. His remains were yesterday sent home.

NEW ENGLAND WOMEN BUSY.

Plenty of Work Laid Out for Themselves by Members of the National Society.

Yesterday afternoon the National Society of New England Women held its first meeting for the season at the Waldorf, and plans were made for the club's work during the rest of the year.

The members are pursuing a course of historical study, making researches into the New England life of the seventeenth century. The value of this work is to be seen not only in the addresses made and papers read, but in the engraved work, such popular publications as those of Mrs.

Alfred Morse Earle and Mrs. Helen Coffey, the two who have made their society studies the most of their time.

At Kingston for many extended work. The president, Mrs. Theodore F. Seward, the president, Mrs. A. M. Johnson, Mrs. Augusta C. Dexter, Mrs. C. S. Sedgwick, Mrs. A. T. Nye, Mrs. G. M. Donaldson, Mrs. W. G. Sailer, Mrs. E. D. Jones and Mrs. Cephas Brainerd, Jr.

HERO BALKS DEATH.

Fireman Schusler Crawls on His Hands and Knees Through Fire to Save a Boy.

Fireman William J. Schusler crawled on his hands and knees through flames and smoke in a burning hallway yesterday and rescued a child that was strapped in a chair. The fire was all about the child when Schusler reached it, and so near that its clothing was scorched.

Three little boys were left in a kitchen by Mrs. J. W. Harms, wife of a conductor on the Belt line, while she went shopping. One of the boys, Bennie, played with matches and set fire to some bed clothes. The flames quickly spread to the walls.

Bennie dragged one of his little brothers, Lester, as far from the flames as he could, and then began beating on the hall door and crying for help.

Mrs. H. Abramowitz, who lives on the floor above, heard the boy's screams, but the door open, and dragged Bennie and his brother Willie out of the burning rooms. She did not see little Lester, who was strapped in his chair. No one thought of the boy until Mrs. Harms rushed up to the house, crying: "My child is in there! Oh, save him!"

Fireman William J. Schusler, who acts as driver for Battalion Chief Shea, snatched the child from the flames as he crawled on his hands and knees through the burning hallway. He crawled on his hands and knees the entire length of the narrow hall until he reached the kitchen.

Then, in the midst of the smoke and senger on the train, that was scheduled to pass the freight upon which he was a brakeman, at Kingston. As his train slowed up on a siding, he leaped down with the intention of waving his hand to his wife as she passed by. In jumping from his train he landed directly in the path of the approaching engine.

flames, he dimly saw the little boy strapped in a high chair. Schusler broke the straps, snatched the boy and again entered the burning hallway. It was so filled with flames that it seemed almost impossible, but Schusler again crawled on his hands and knees, keeping the cape about his face as best he could.

Nearly overcome himself, his thoughts were still for the boy he was carrying, and before he reached the door, he took the cape from around his face and wrapped the child in it. As he crawled out on the safety steps a dozen men dragged him to the street.

Kirby's child was taken to the house of Dr. Burnham, across the street. It was badly hurt, but will live. The Harms apartment was ruined by the fire. The damage is estimated at $500.
